

Global Climate Change and Vulnerability in Xiamen, China

DATES: July 2 - 15, 2017

Credit: 3 units Sci 596

Application is now OPEN
Price: $1,348

Includes meals, housing and excursions

About this course

There are no prerequisites for this course; all class levels are welcome. The course will discuss the science, policy and big data issues related to climate change and how changing climate affects natural resources.

Excursions include:
Zhangzhou national Geologic Park
XiaTanWei Mangrove Wetland Park
National Geologic Park of Strand

Scholarships Available

For more information or Assistance with application contact Maureen Crawford mcrawford@mail.sdsu.edu

<http://sci.sdsu.edu/international/project/xiamen-china-global-climate-change-and-vulnerabilities/>

Apply here:

<https://www.ces.sdsu.edu/Pages/TravelStudy/AvailablePrograms.aspx>

SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY
College of Sciences
International

*SDSU College of Sciences program led by Dr. Samuel Shen, Math and Statistics, and
Dr. Chun-ta Lai, Biology*

Xiamen University

